About This Directory

The 2003/2004 AIA Colorado Firm Profile & Membership Directory has been broken into two main sections aimed at recognizing both member firms and individual members. The Member Firm Profiles & Local Chapter Information section is a roster of architecture firms whose principals and/or partners are full AIA members. The Individual Members section contains individual listings of ALL members, including Associate AIA, Professional Affiliate, Student Affiliates, and intern members.

All information in the 2003/2004 AIA Colorado Firm Profile & Membership Directory has been provided by firm and affiliate members. AIA Colorado is not responsible for any inaccuracies or omissions in the member listings. Inclusion in this Directory does not in any way imply endorsement of any firm, service or product.

to the 2003/2004 AIA Colorado Firm Profile & Membership Directory. In addition to providing access to the leading architectural firms and professionals in Colorado, this directory contains a wealth of information about the American Institute of Architects useful to consumers, policy makers, design professionals, those in the allied professions and in the construction industry. I would encourage you to spend a few moments to scan its contents, especially the Buyer's Guide that lists services provided by companies that support AIA Colorado.

In addition to this printed resource, which is updated and printed annually in July, the AIA Colorado website, www.aiacolorado.org, contains current news and information about AIA Colorado. It also includes links to websites of member firms and other construction industry organizations, e-mail links to AIA Colorado staff and directors, the Colorado Classifieds, and many other resources.

AIA Colorado maintains attractive offices in the Park Central Building on the corner of 15th and Larimer Streets in downtown Denver. Here you will find a friendly and professional staff, a small bookstore, gift shop, industry-accepted AIA documents, résumés of architects seeking employment, gallery exhibits, and much more information about architecture and construction. If you can't get to our office, don't hesitate to call our staff at 303-446-2266 or 800-628-5598 with your professional needs, questions, concerns, or interests.

AIA Colorado has been the voice of the architectural profession in Colorado since its charter in 1892, one hundred eleven years ago. The activities of the state component and the four local chapters representing nearly 2000 members are many and varied, including celebrating and advocating design excellence, representing architects' interests at state and local governments, maintaining connections with other participants in the design and construction industry and the community, and providing opportunities for fellowship and continuing education.

This year, the annual six-state Western Mountain Region AIA Conference will be combined with the annual AIA Colorado Design Conference and held on November 14 and 15 at the Park Hyatt Hotel in Beaver Creek. The theme, "Antinomy", is a word you don't hear very often but describes a phenomenon that architects deal with on a daily basis - two truths that conflict with each other. Some of the brightest stars in the profession will be presenting, including Art Gensler, FAIA Charles Gwathmey, FAIA Robert Ivy, FAIA Hugh Hardy, FAIA and many others. The Communications Symposium that was so successful last year will be repeated on November 13th. With a stellar program, low room rates, and the savings provided by AIA Value Cards, this conference is a must to attend!

William B. Tracy, AIA
2003 President, AIA Colorado

The American Institute of Architects' Code of Ethics and Professional Conduct

Members of The American Institute of Architects are dedicated to the highest standards of professionalism, integrity and competence. The following principles are guidelines for the conduct of members in fulfilling those obligations.

Canon I - General Obligations

Members should maintain and advance their knowledge of the art and science of architecture, respect the body of architectural accomplishments, and contribute to its growth. Learned and uncompromised professional judgment should take precedence over any other motive in the pursuit of the art and science of architecture.

Canon II - Obligations to the Public

Members should embrace the spirit and letter of the law governing their professional affairs and should thoughtfully consider the social and environmental impact of their professional activities.

Canon III - Obligations to the Client

Members should serve their clients competently and in a professional manner, and should exercise unprejudiced and unbiased judgment when performing all professional services.

Canon IV - Obligations to the Profession

Members should uphold the integrity and dignity of the profession.

Canon V - Obligations to Colleagues

Members should respect the rights and acknowledge the professional aspirations and contributions of their colleagues.

The National Council of Architectural Registration Boards (NCARB) was established in 1920 to help member boards:

- Carry out their duties
- Foster the enactment of uniform architectural laws
- Develop examinations and establish standards for certification requirements in education and training
- To perfect their procedures for verifying the qualifications of applicants and determining their eligibility for certification
- Establish and maintain reciprocal registration between states having registration laws

The NCARB is a non-profit corporation with all legally constituted boards of architecture in the United States as members, including the Colorado Board of Examiners of Architects.

To be eligible for NCARB certification, architects must submit satisfactory evidence that they comply with the standard for education, training, examination and character and have been registered by a member board.

The NCARB will, upon request of an individual architect, secure, authenticate and record factual data of the applicant's education, training, practice and character. This record will be forwarded to any state board upon request of the applicant.

Certification shall be given to an applicant holding a council record verifying that the applicant has complied with the council's standards of education, training, practice and character; and that the applicant has passed an examination conforming to the council's standards of content, extent and length of time.

Certification by the NCARB is recommendation to all registration authorities that registration be granted to the holder without further examination. Most board members accept NCARB certification as conclusive evidence of an architect's eligibility of registration. It is, however, not a national registration.

Complete information on compiling a council record and obtaining council certification can be obtained from:

What Do Architects Do?

You have a vision of what you want. Now you need to make that vision a reality. Here's how architects can assist you:

Architects See the Big Picture

Architects are specially educated to assist you in defining what you want to build, present options you might never have considered, and help you get the most for your valuable investment. They don't just design four walls and a roof — they create total environments, both interiors and exteriors, that are functional and exciting places in which to work and live.

Architects Solve Problems Creatively

Architects are trained problem solvers. Need more room for your growing family? Architects can show you how to enlarge your home so you won't have to move. Have a limited budget? Architects can also propose ways to get more for your investment than you imagined possible.

Architects Help You Get the Most from Your Construction Dollar

Architects can reduce building costs, decrease your home's energy needs, and increase its future resale value through good design.

Architects Make Your Life Easier

Building is a long process that is often messy and disruptive, particularly if you're living in the space while it's under construction. Your architect represents you! Your architect looks out for your interests and smoothes the process, helps find qualified construction contractors, and visits the worksite to help protect you against work that's not according to plan.

Speak with an architect who is a member of (AIA) at the earliest stage of the design process. Use the 2003/2004 Firm Profile and Directory to reach all the AIA members located in Colorado. Another resource available to you is an architectural database that contains the names of our member firms. You can find this by visiting our website at www.aiacolorado.org.

Why an AIA Architect?

Like doctors and lawyers, architects are licensed professionals. The title "Architect" may be used only by an individual who possesses a state license to practice architecture. They are the only professionals in the construction industry who are ethically bound to represent you, the building owner.

Professional qualifications generally include:

- College degree from an accredited school of architecture, requiring five or more years of professional studies
- Three years of internship under the supervision of licensed architects
- Passage of a rigorous five-day examination

Only those professionals who have fulfilled these requirements or other requirements as stipulated by each individual state, may legally call themselves architects and practice architecture in the jurisdiction granting the license. Individuals may be registered, or licensed, in more than one state by means of reciprocal licensing agreements among the states.

Get the Real Thing – Look for "AIA"

Look for the AIA initials after the name of any architect you consider for your project. AIA architects remain current with professional standards through continuing education and subscribe to a code of ethics and professional conduct that assure clients, the public and colleagues of their dedication to high standards in professional practice.

AIA Colorado Chapter Information

The Colorado Component of The American Institute of Architects

AIA Colorado represents architects and others statewide and unifies the four local chapters of The American Institute of Architects within Colorado. AIA Colorado seeks to:

- Unite the architects of the state of Colorado in fellowship.
- Promote the aesthetic, scientific, and business practice of architecture.
- Advance architectural standards of continuing education, training and practice.
- Build relationships among clients, the construction industry and architects.

AIA Colorado believes that an important purpose of architecture is to create a vision that improves the built environment. This vision is vital to the advancement of the living standards of our communities and provides a service of ever-increasing value to society.

AIA Colorado provides architect referrals, lobbies the Colorado legislature, offers architectural employment information and sells AIA contracts and publications. The organization hosts an annual conference, usually between October and December. AIA Colorado provides support all the chapters within the state. It is a professional organization for the design profession and are classified as "not-for-profit."

History of AIA Colorado

The Colorado Association of Architects was organized in 1890 and the elected officers were: Robert S. Roeschlaub, President; Harold W. Baerresen, Vice President; Eugene R. Rice, Secretary; and Frank E. Edbrooke, Treasurer. The same men were re-elected to office at the Second Annual Meeting held December 21, 1891. The main topic of discussion at that event was submitting an application for a charter as a chapter of The American Institute of Architects. The charter was received April 4, 1892 and included the states of Colorado, Wyoming and the territory of New Mexico. It wasn't until 1947 that each state had its own chapter.

AIA Colorado Board of Directors

The Board of Directors is the governing body of AIA Colorado and develops all immediate and long-term positions and policies for the state. If there is a subject of concern for you or if you have a proposal for the Board, please call AIA Colorado by the 10th of the month. A time will be scheduled for you during the Board meeting to offer your feedback. AIA Colorado board meetings are held on the 3rd Friday of each month at 2:00 p.m. typically at the AIA office. All members are welcome to attend. A current list of all Boards of Directors and Committees can be found on the AIA Colorado web site at www.aiacolorado.org.

AIA Colorado Committees, Task Forces, & Coordinators

The following outlines a just a portion of the committees and services available to members of AIA Colorado. The AIA Colorado Board of Directors encourages your active participation in AIA at the local, state and national levels. Your involvement means fellowship with your peers, furthering your career and continuing your education. Volunteer your expertise—join a committee, sponsor an intern, submit an article to the newsletter, run for the Board seat, suggest a new service and attend the Annual Design Conference. Your participation and feedback are necessary for the continued success of this membership body. Many other committees exist at the local chapter level as well. Please refer to the AIA Colorado website at www.aiacolorado.org for a complete list of all committees active in each chapter.

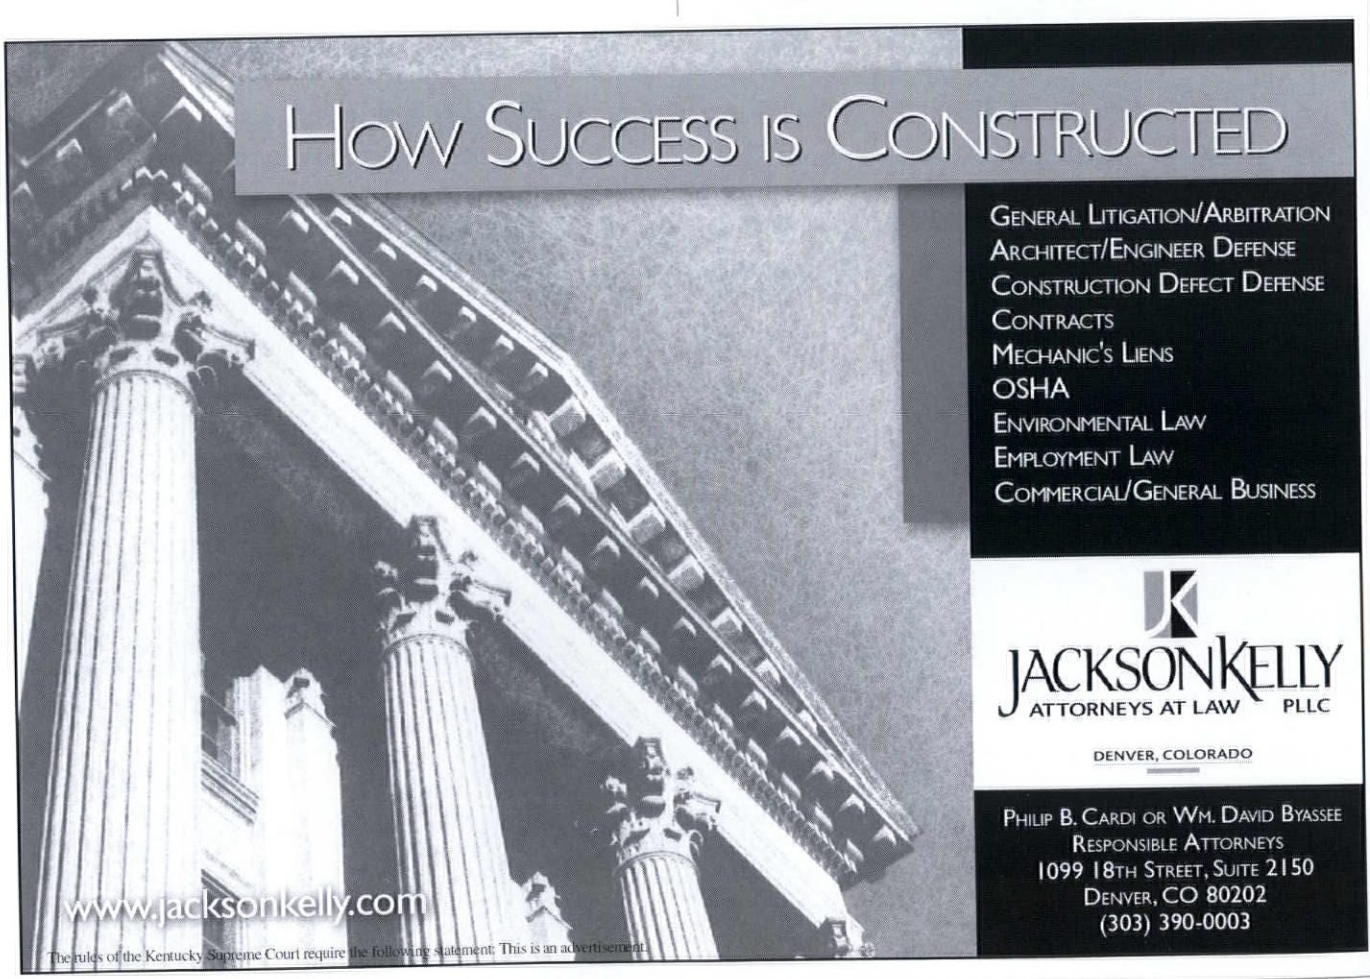

AIA Colorado Communications Advisory Board

Chair: William Tracy, AIA
BAM!

The Communications Advisory Board (CAB) has been formed to serve as the nucleus of strategic communication planning for the state and its four local chapter components. Members of this board will function as an accessible source of information and as a tool for architectural professionals, supporting personal and professional development. The Communications tools that are continuously being enhanced to target all AIA Colorado needs are the quarterly AIA Colorado Architect newsletter, biweekly e-news and the website. CAB is a direct report the AIA Colorado Board.

AIA/AGC/ACEC Design & Construction Coalition

In 1997, AIA Colorado, Associated General Contractors (AGC) of Colorado and The American Council of Engineering Companies of Colorado (ACEC) sought an agreement to achieve a partnership for the purpose of enhancing the relationships between the three organizations and their members. The Board of Directors of each organization are committed to developing a detailed understanding of the concerns that confront the members of each organization as they proceed with the design and construction of projects and to carefully analyze the challenges that the three organizations have in accomplishing their goals. Chairmanship of this committee rotates between the three collateral organizations on annual basis.

Design Awards Program

AIA Colorado Chair:, Alan Ford AIA
WMR 2003 Chair: Dennis Reseutek, AIA

The Awards Program seeks to honor works of distinction by AIA Colorado members and to bring to public, outstanding architectural services provided by members of AIA Colorado. Colorado Design Award winners are announced during the annual Design Conference.

Annual State Design Conference

Co-Chair: Christopher Nims, FAIA
Co-Chair: Phillip Gerou, Gerou & Associates

This Committee is responsible for the planning and execution of AIA Colorado's annual Design Conference. The conference chair is appointed by the President-Elect before the year of the conference to be chaired. Committee members develop the theme for each conference, invite speakers and coordinate the two-and-a-half-day schedule. Member participation and feedback is strongly encouraged.

The Architectural Education Foundation, AIA Colorado

Treasurer/Secretary: Robert K. Fuller II, AIA

The Architectural Education Foundation, AIA Colorado, awards scholarships and grants to architectural students, faculty members, architects and AIA components each spring. Application deadline for these scholarships historically, has been the beginning of March. Approximately $35,000 is distributed annually by the Foundation.

Finance Committee

2003 Chair: John Yonushewski, AIA
Buchanan/ Yonushewski
2004 Chair: Cheri Gerou, AIA
Gerou & Associates

This Committee is responsible for the financial stability of AIA Colorado. The Committee develops long-range financial goals and makes recommendations to the Board regarding budgets and other areas of financial planning. Membership dues, The Annual Design Conference, support from sponsors, and document sales generate most of the revenue necessary for the operating budget of AIA Colorado.

Government Affairs

2003 Chair: Mike Wisneski, AIA
2004 Chair: Dave Lingle, AIA
Aller-Lingle Architects

The Government Affairs Committee's (GAC) primary goal is to increase the legislators' awareness of architects, architecture and the AIA. This Committee meets on the first Friday of each month at 1:00 p.m. at the AIA Colorado office to discuss matters relating to, the State Board of Examiners of Architects and legislation at the federal and state levels. During the 120-day Colorado legislative session, the Legislative Affairs subcommittee meets weekly to review and discuss potential legislation that could affect the profession of architecture. Because AIA National sponsors key legislation infrequently, the state component contract lobbyist, Jerry Johnson, assists AIA Colorado in the monitoring process, as well as providing on-site lobbying at the Capitol.

Nominating Committee

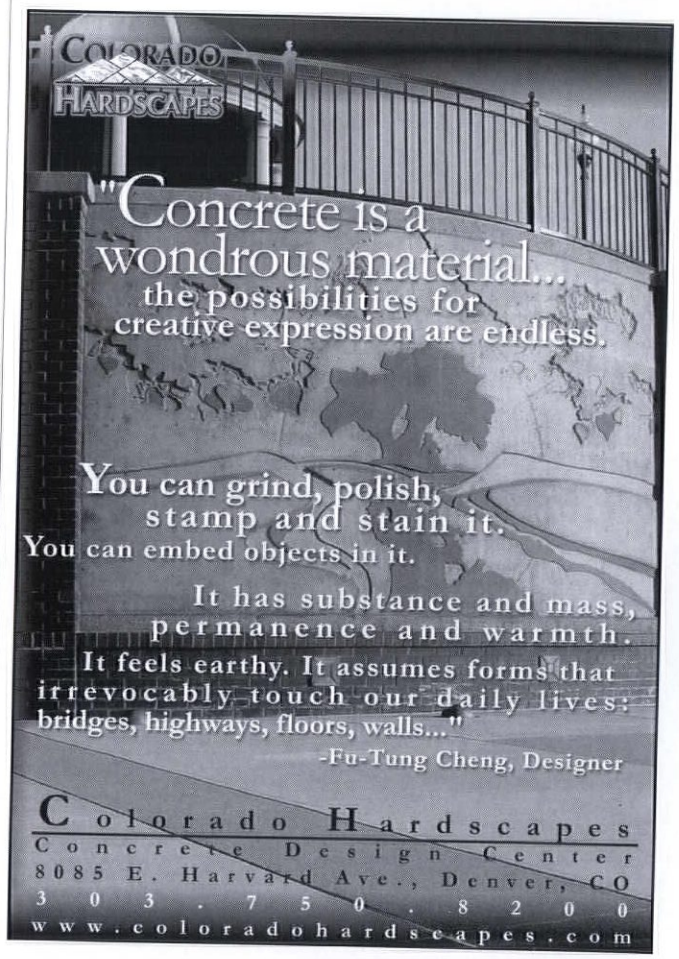

Chairman: Christopher Green, AIA @tlantis

This Committee is composed of at least five AIA Colorado architects, selected on the basis of one representative from each AIA Colorado chapter (appointed each year at the August meeting of the Board of Directors) and chaired by the current President-Elect. The Nominating Committee recommends at least two nominees to run for each officer's position on the AIA Colorado Board of Directors.

Fellows Task Force

Chair: Gary Desmond, FAIA
AR7/HooverDesmond Architects

The Fellows Task Force was formed in 1992 and assists local chapters in nominating their outstanding members to be considered for election to the College of Fellows. The Task Force helps those architects nominated in developing their submissions to the Jury of Fellows.

Membership

Chair: Elizabeth Wright Ingraham
Elizabeth Wright Ingraham Architects

Successful and continuous membership expansion efforts are essential to ensure that the AIA truly represents the profession. Recruit a friend — invite them to a meeting or chapter activity and get them involved in AIA Colorado.

Intern Development Program

State Coordinator: Cedra Ginsburg, AIA

The Intern Development Program (IDP) continues to gain momentum in Colorado. The IDP Coordinator and AIA Colorado staff sent out more than 100 packets last year. The Coordinator provides programs at CU Boulder and CU Denver, as well as firms interested in the merits of the IDP program. The Coordinator also nominates firms for the AIA/NCARB IDP Firm of the Year award.

The Young Architects' Awards Gala

2003 Co-Chair: Nanson Anderson, AIA
2003 Co-Chair: Dave Anderson, AIA
2003 Co-Chair: Jered Minter, Assoc. AIA

The AIA Colorado Young Architects' Awards Gala committee is responsible for the annual programs aimed at recognizing the Architectural Education Foundation, AIA Colorado recipients and also bestows numerous other awards aimed at students, interns and recently licensed professionals. The most prestigious award is the AIA Colorado Young Architect of the Year award. Additional award categories include excellence in construction documents, technology innovations, craftsmanship and student portfolios. The program also seeks to recognize significant firm contributions to young professionals through its Mentoring Firm of the Year award.

AIA College of Fellows

The American Institute of Architects bestows the recognition of Fellowship for achievement in architecture on members who have contributed notably to the advancement of the profession of architecture. With the exception of the Gold Medal, fellowship is the highest honor the AIA can bestow on a member. It is conferred on members with at least 10 years of membership who have made significant contributions to the aesthetic, scientific and practical efficiency of the profession; to the standards of architectural education, training and practice; to the building industry through leadership of the AIA and other related professional organizations; to the advancement of the living standards of people through their improved environment and to society through significant public service.

Those advanced to fellowship can use "FAIA" after their names in recognition of their contributions in design, education, research or public service.

The following people came into the area from other chapters in the early days and were automatic Fellows when assigned to the Colorado Chapter. (Area - Colorado, Wyoming and the territory of New Mexico, April 4, 1892).

The History of the Architectural Education Foundation, AIA Colorado

by Kenneth R. Fuller, FAIA Emeritus (1913-1998)

Since the first $600 scholarship was presented in 1961, the Architectural Education Foundation, AIA Colorado has awarded more than $675,000 in scholarships, grants and other prizes to more than 250 students, architects and teachers. Each recipient is a better professional today because of this Foundation. The 1998 awards program totaled $33,000 from income received through investments, donations, memorials, etc. This figure is more than 10 times the amount set up in the original Trust Fund in 1934.

During the past decade, substantial contributions have been made to the Education Foundation by individual architects and firms as memorials. Significant donations have also been made in the past by individuals and organizations allied with the construction industry. Frequently, donors send a check to the Fund instead of flowers to memorialize a deceased friend.

The consensus from the Education Foundation Trustees over the last several years has been that we must broaden our scope of activities to do more to financially assist AIA Colorado and its four chapters so that the AIA can conduct progressive Professional Education Programs. Requests for such Grants should be submitted to:, the Architectural Education Foundation, AIA Colorado 3320 East Second Avenue, Denver, CO, 80206. It is also the consensus of opinion that we need to strengthen our efforts to seek new funds in the way of endowments, donations, budgeted items, memorials, etc., from the Chapters and the membership at large.

The Architectural Education Foundation, AIA Colorado was born in 1934 out of the devotion of five men to the practice of architecture. On January 23, 1934, Robert K. Fuller, FAIA, announced on behalf of himself and four other men, the creation of a special Trust Fund "to advance the interest of the profession of architecture in the State of Colorado."

The Foundation was conceived a decade earlier by Robert K. Fuller, FAIA; William E. Fisher, FAIA; George H. Williamson, FAIA; William Bowman, AIA; and Fred Montjoy, AIA. Their vision had long been "to provide an instrument whereby, someday, sufficient income would be realized to be able to award scholarships, grants, prizes, etc. to the betterment of the profession." (All "quotes" are from the original Articles of Incorporation.)

The first aim of the Foundation was quite modest: the assets were to be "held intact and allowed to grow" until the principal would be large enough to ensure a "good annual return therefrom." The founders hoped that the amount in the Fund would serve as a "nucleus" that would increase in value and, now that it was formally established, also attract additional donations. By 1944, however, no new contributions had come forward, and of the five founding fathers of the fund, only the Fund's Chairman, Robert K. Fuller, survived.

On December 18, 1944, the Foundation was transferred to the Colorado Chapter, AIA (predecessor of the Colorado State Society of the AIA and now AIA Colorado) as a Chapter Investment Fund. Robert K. Fuller was designated its Permanent Trustee. By early 1961, the Fund had achieved its first aim "... a good annual return." It was then deemed necessary to incorporate as a separate tax-free entity to be known as the Educational Fund, Colorado Chapter, AIA. On February 16, 1961, the Foundation was incorporated as a separate tax-free, non-profit corporation, under that name. Its broad purpose, as reported in the December 1961 issue of the Colorado Chapter, AIA newsletter, "The Addenda," was (and remains today) "to advance education in architecture by granting of scholarships, prizes and financial aid to deserving students in architecture and to teachers or architects interested in research projects directly related and of value to the architectural profession."

At its November 1961 meeting at the old Boulder Country Club, the Colorado Chapter, AIA awarded James E. Koentop, a fifth-year Architectural engineering student at the University of Colorado, the $600 William E. Fisher Memorial Scholarship. This was the first scholarship awarded by the Educational Fund, Colorado Chapter, AIA. It had taken only 27 years for the five founders' original dream (to be able to make such awards for the betterment of the profession) to come true.

Robert K. Fuller, FAIA, died in 1966, and the Colorado Chapter, AIA asked his son Kenneth R. Fuller, FAIA to assume the responsibility of the position of Permanent Member of the Board of Trustees. Upon the death of Kenneth in 1998, his son Robert K. Fuller II, AIA became the third Permanent Member of the Board of Trustees. In 1969, following the restructure of the AIA in Colorado into a State Society with two chapters (now four) the Fund's name was legally changed to the Educational Fund, Colorado Society of Architects, AIA ... to ensure the Foundation's continuity and maintain its statewide orientation.

The Board of Trustees of the Architectural Education Foundation, AIA Colorado, by the Articles of Incorporation, consists of the following officers: Elizabeth Wright Ingraham, FAIA President; William B. Tracy, AIA Vice President; Robert K. Fuller II, AIA, Secretary/Treasurer and John J. Williams, AIA, Trustee.

AIA Continuing Education Requirements for Membership

What is AIA/CES?

CES is a Continuing Education System developed by the AIA which emphasizes learning and maintains records of AIA-member learning units (LUs). Continuing education is a requirement for AIA architect membership and enables the architects to stay current, master new knowledge and skill, plan for the future and responsibly meet the role society entrusts to a professional. In doing so, AIA/CES has the potential to be a primary force in improving and vitalizing the profession of architecture.

How does it work?

As members you can earn credit (Learning Units, or LUs) in two ways:

A. Participating in programs offered by chapters, firms and other registered providers. In this case, there's no paperwork at all for you to deal with. This generally does not include committee meetings.

B. Self-directed personal learning activities which are studies of matters relying principally on the architect's initiative as a method of gaining knowledge to improve professional skills. These can include seminars, college courses, conference presentations, video and audio tapes and computer-based education software. A self report form is filled out and used to record your learning units on a transcript. You may complete your self report forms electronically at www.aiaonline.com, or request a hard copy of the form to be faxed to you from AIA Colorado.

What is a Learning Unit Hour (LU Hour)?

AIA records continuing education credit in Learning Unit hours (LUs). On LU is equal to one education program contact hour. The AIA Board of Directors approved this educational model January 1, 2000.

How many Learning Units do I need?

All active AIA members must successfully complete 18 LU/hours per year (including eight learning units are to be earned in the area of health, safety and welfare) to fulfill the CES requirement for membership renewal. This will be retroactively affect the and 2001 records.

- A member who fails to meet the annual requirement will be given nine months to earn the deficient LUs and meet the current annual requirement of 18 LUs.
- A member who exceeds the annual requirement in a given year may carry up to 18 LUs (including eight hours of HSW) into the next year. Members' CES carryover credits allow only as many hours as needed to fulfill the annual requirement.

Where are the CES records kept?

Transcript service and record keeping is provided by the College of Continuing Education at the University of Oklahoma. Self report forms need to be sent by the member directly to: University of Oklahoma, AIA/CES, Room B4, 1700 Asp Avenue, Norman, OK 73072. You may choose to complete your self report forms electronically, through www.aiaonline.com. A transcript will be mailed each October, free of charge, to all members with CES activities during the calendar year. Additional transcripts are $10 each. Transcripts can be accessed on AIA Online by using your member number. You should keep a record of your LUs for two years.

What Other Ways Can the Internet and AIAOnline Help with CES?

Members and AIA/CES Registered Providers can now access AIA/CES through the AIAOnline professional information continuing education page. You will find the following offering on AIAOnline:

CES Transcripts: All members can review their up-to-date transcripts at any time.

State Mandatory Continuing Education (MCE) Requirements: Find current information about state MCE requirements and regular updates about continuing education issues. Click on the map for an update status report of the states. Links connect to the home page of licensing boards in states that require MCE.

AIA eClassroom: Take advantage of this exciting way to take a course over the Internet. Additional information can be found about other educational self-study products and distance educational programs.

CES Questions (FAQs): A quick resource fo rhte most up-to-date frequently asked questions.

Provider Information – A list of all currently approved CES registered providers and the 2003 winners of the AIA/CES Award for Excellence.

CES Forms: Location of the AIA/CES template self reporting forms for members. CES providers may advertise and register their programs through easy online templates. Other CES provider forms and the application for the CES Providers Award for Excellence may be downloaded.

Is there a list of CES events available for AIA Colorado members?

AIA Colorado and each local chapter have events and programs throughout the year that qualify for Learning Units. AIA Colorado's monthly newsletter, the Colorado Architect, includes announcements of CES events throughout the state, as does our web site at www.aiacolorado.org.

If you would like more information about AIA/CES please contact AIA Colorado, 303.446.2266 or 800.628.5598, extension 17 or go to www.aiacolorado.org for event and program information.

AIA Colorado Membership

AIA Colorado has five basic levels of membership. Full descriptions of all membership levels and benefits can be found on the AIA Colorado website at www.aiacolorado.org.

AIA (Licensed Architects) – Currently licensed to practice architecture in the the United States
Emeritus – An AIA member fully retired
Associate AIA – Unlicensed to practice architecture in the United States, but meets one of the following:
-Participating in career responsibilities recognized by licensing authorities as constituting credit toward licensure (INTERN).
-Under the supervision of an architect in a professional or technical capacity
-A faculty member in a university program in architecture
-Licensed in another country, but not U.S.
Professional Affiliate – (state and local levels only) Unlicensed to practice architecture. Individuals with established professional reputations who are registered to practice their profession where such requirements exist, or persons who are employed outside architectural practice but are involved in positions related to the field of architecture may become professional affiliate members.
Student Affiliate – (state and local levels only) Any undergraduate or post-graduate student enrolled in architectural design or construction related programs in state of Colorado.

The following list highlights the general benefits all members receive from The American Institute of Architects.

Benefits from AIA Colorado and Your Local Chapter

(more information on these benefits can be found on page 20)

AIA Colorado Benefits and Services for Members

(As mentioned on page 19)

AIA Document and Publication Sales

AIA Colorado is a full-service distributor of AIA contract documents and forms. Each member receives a 30% discount on all AIA copyright-protected contract documents and a member price on copyright-protected contract documents and a member price on many books published by AIA. Our document inventory is kept well stocked to fill orders, however, advance notice is requested so that we can replace our inventory and have documents available at all times. We stock a limited number of books, such as CADD Layering Guidelines. Order forms faxed or mailed to AIA Colorado accompanied by a check or VISA/MC/AE number, are normally processed on Tuesdays and Thursdays. You may also pick up your document order at the AIA Colorado office.

AIA Colorado Classifieds

The AIA Colorado Classifieds is a unique service, dedicated to architectural employment of all types, space available and services that benefit this industry. This listing is updated weekly. You will find various vacant positions, making it an excellent and reliable resource for those seeking employment and employees. You may either go to our website (www.aiacolorado.org) to view the Classifieds or come by the AIA Colorado and pick up a copy. Contact AIA Colorado for more information.

AIA Colorado Resume Book

AIA Colorado maintains a book of resumes for potential employers. Hiring firms may visit our offices to review the book or may call and request matching resumes to be faxed, There is no charge for members to receive copies of resumes - up to ten; non-members will be charged $15.00 + a dollar per resume. Individuals may leave their single-page resumes on file at the AIA Colorado office for a period of four months (a one-time fee of $20.00 is assessed to offset any faxing, copying and mailing fees that accrue through a four-month period). AIA Colorado receives approximately four resume requests a week and distributes five resumes per request.

Firm Profile & Membership Directory

The Firm Profile & Membership Directory is a statewide listing of all AIA Colorado members for the current calendar year. The directory also includes many resources for the general public and those who procure architectural services.

2002 Award Recipients

AIA Colorado Design Awards

AIA Colorado Design Awards

Recognizing architecture and design excellence throughout the state of Colorado, The American Institute of Architects (AIA) announced the recipients of its 2002 design awards. The awards were announced at the annual 2002 AIA Colorado Design Conference and Awards Gala in Vail, Colorado.

This year's jury chair, Bruce Kuwabara of Kuwabara Payne McKenna Blumberg Architects of Ontario, Canada, assembled a group of distinguished architects to judge more than 130 submitted projects in the categories of Built Architecture, Unbuilt Architecture, Interiors and Planning.

Honor Award (highest achievment)

Built Architecture

Harry Teague Architects, Harry Teague (principal) Patrick Leads (project manager) Matt Scholl, for Hallam Street Residence

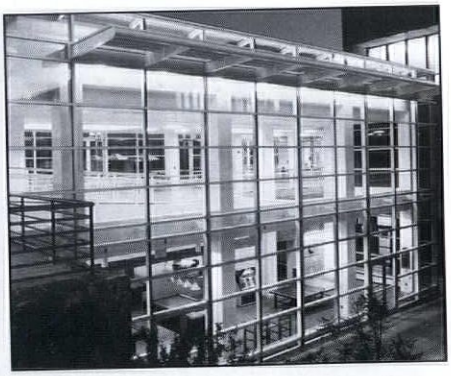

The 3,000 square foot addition to this carefully restored mining era Victorian retreats back and to the side, allowing the original house to stand alone on the street. Cornice lines, proportions and materials transfer the scale naturally across to the contemporary volumes enclosing the master bedroom suite. This new element is connected to the main house by a "transparent" gallery. Exterior floor, wall and ceiling materials carry through the interior with minor interruptions, and necessary doors and screens hide in discrete pockets within the stone walls. All contribute to the spatial transparency. Massive stone walls provide a suitable background for the display of an ever-changing collection of contemporary art, while adding to the illusion of invisible walls.

"The site plan creates two outdoor courtyards linked through the main living room. The interlocking of old and new is very sophisticated, reinforced by strong material selection including long slabs of stone flooring, massive stone walls, and zinc cladding."

Built Architecture

H & L Architecture, Shepley, Bulfinch Richardson & Abbott for the University of Colorado, Colorado Springs, University Center Expansion

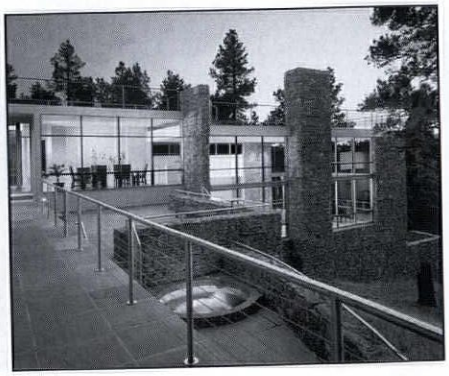

University of Colorado, Colorado Springs, University Center Expansion. The University Center Expansion project was designed to create a new social center for students, faculty and staff on a growing Colorado Springs campus within the University of Colorado system. It replaced a disjointed, multi-level facility that was housed in two buildings with no defining relationships or a common entry. The primary goal of this student funded University Center was to create an expanded facility that not only provided additional square footage for specific programs and activities, but also created a flowing connection between existing spaces from an identifiable entry point.

To accomplish this goal, a literal glass link, was designed to connect the three buildings together. The transparent structure with continuous parapet glazing and daylighting throughout blurs the boundaries of indoor and outdoor space. Pyramidal skylights mark the primary pedestrian circulation connection. The link, addition is anchored by a glazed tower structure to the south, marking a landmark entry point for students while defining a two-story entry and lobby space.

"This project creates a very successful link connecting different buildings and different levels on the campus. The contrast of the lightness of the new glazing with the existing masonry buildings gives the new interventions a unique identity."

Built Architecture

Alexander Gorlin Architects for Stone & Glass House

This house is conceived both as an abstraction of the landscape on which it is situated and as a reinhabited ruin; a ruin built in reverse. Located on a steep, heavily wooded site in the Rocky Mountains, the house is organized along two axes, forming a pinwheel plan inserted into the site between two ravines. Stonewalls extending into the landscape form the image of a ruin found in the inhabited wilds, and are reinhabited with the program of the house. These vertical surfaces echo the nature of the site, while mediating between the exterior and interior spaces of the house.

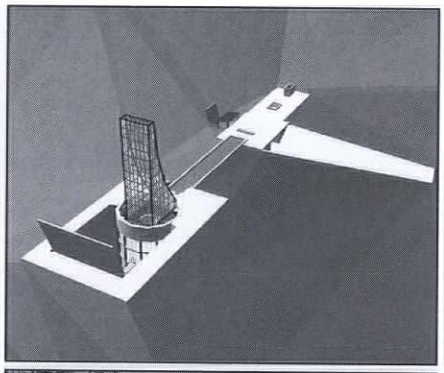

"Within a bold cruciform plan, the design breaks down and integrates a large residential program on its site into a well-orchestrated composition of solids and voids."

2002 Award Recipients

AIA Colorado Design Awards

Unbuilt Architecture

Mark Harris, AIA for UN Security Council /Titan Missile Silo

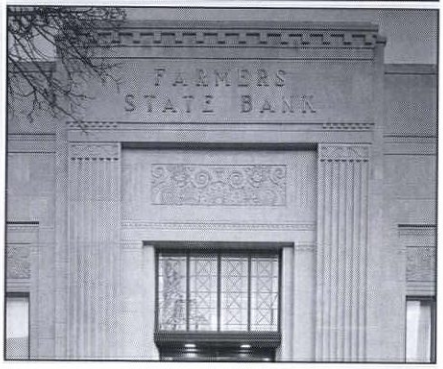

Located in the remote location of a desert military installation, the rehabilitation of the Titan II missile silo is to maintain its role of being a deterrent to the possible catastrophe that a nuclear confrontation would bring if undertaken at any scale. However, in times like these it is diplomacy that seems to be the greatest weapon in our arsenal. The isolated location of the new United Nations Security Council Chambers provides the necessary neutrality for diplomatic actions to succeed.

"This probing, visionary project offers a prototype for the conversion of abandoned Titan missile silos to accommodate the UN Security Council. The re-inhabitation of a former missile silo is both a powerful and highly symbolic act. The project is extremely strong at a conceptual level and coherent at every scale."

Interiors

Bennett Wagner & Grody Architects, P.C. for The Bloedorn Center for Community and Economic Development - The Farmer's Bank

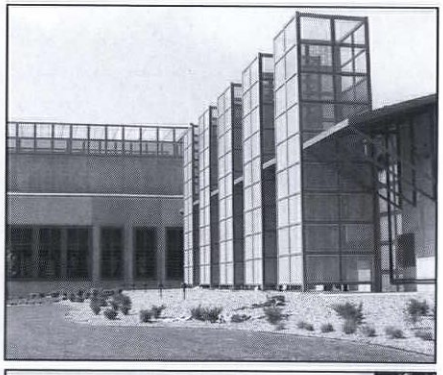

"The original building is a modern design, thoroughly appreciated and loved by the community it served. The new functions include offices for the Chamber of Commerce, and a range of agricultural programs. The attention to the details of the historic building and the adaptation of spaces for new users is very impressive. The tradition of community values and stewardship is highly commendable."

Merit Award (outstanding achievment)

Built Architecture

Gensler for Sabre Data Center

The 225,000 sf Sabre Data Center includes two computer modules totaling 134,000 sf, 13,000 sf of office space, and a 78,000 sf central plant. The raised computer floor area is designed for 100 watts per square foot, while the overall facility is designed to withstand the effects of a Category F5 tornado.

The many steps taken in designing the structural layout of the building to protect the data center from the area's characteristically high winds. The precast concrete shell and steel columns support a 16-inch thick concrete roof while the walls of the computer modules are bermed to the roof-line.

"The design explores the industrial nature of the program, and the possibilities of architectural expression within a classic Beaux-Arts plan. Generator muffler exhausts are expressed in a series of repetitive towers. Each technical requirement is turned into an architectural opportunity."

Built Architecture

OZ Architecture for Hannah Evans Residence

This residence, located in an established neighborhood in east Denver, was designed for a single professional woman and completed in 2002. The architectural brief for the project offered interesting opportunities and challenges. The owner wanted a modern design that fit architecturally into its 1950s ranch house style neighborhood. She had been living on the site in a split level ranch that had become obsolete, as is the case with many of the original houses in the neighborhood, which are located on large lots and are being rapidly replaced with larger homes. Generally, these new larger homes are designed to imitate historical styles such as English Tudor, French Country, Spanish Colonial, etc. Our client agreed with us that her new house should be reflective of the present era rather than a previous one and the house should take its design cues from the original and more straightforward ranch style homes. We thought of Wright's Prairie House and their floating roofs as a starting point for our design.

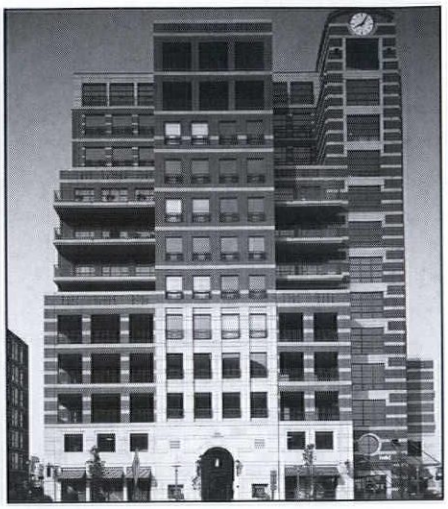

"The design introduces an alternative model into a modern 1950's residential area without restoring to cliches. The setting back of the house creates outdoor spaces with connections to the interior spaces. Every response is thoughtful, providing a sense of openness while maintaining the privacy of the occupant. Frank Lloyd Wright's residential ideas are reinterpreted in a fresh contemporary manner."

Built Architecture

Urban Design Group, Inc. for Riverfront Park

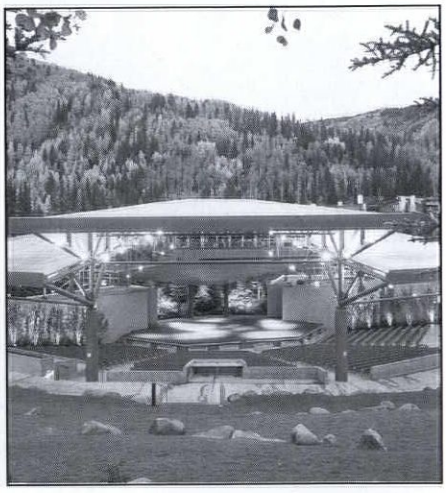

Former Denver Mayor Federico Peña's inauguration message set the original challenge for Riverfront Park more than a decade ago. Now sited in the historic Central Platte Valley, in a former 400-acre rail yard where Denver's earliest roots can be traced, the Riverfront Tower address many urban responsibilities. The Riverfront Tower creates a precedent for the redevelopment of the new Central Platte Valley as it fronts Commons City Park and as it becomes part of Denver's Urban Core. The Tower creates an economically and culturally diverse neighborhood, through varying the living unit sizes and levels of finish. They range from Denver City Qualified "Market Rate" to high-energy urban lofts, to fully finished and finely detailed Flats and Penthouses. On the exterior, the finishes are detailed and vary by building to convey the occupants' lifestyle ranges, from an urban "after-hours energy" to the security of a Central Park-type residence with concierge services.

"This ensemble of buildings supports a big vision. The civic gesture is the park and its connections to the urban fabric and the river. The massing, articulation, and material selection of the buildings is coordinated and legible. The project brings to fruition a long-term vision and commitment to the city building. "

Built Architecture

Morter Architects, James R. Morter, FAIA James K. Buckner, AIA for Gerald R. Ford Amphitheater/Vilar Pavilion

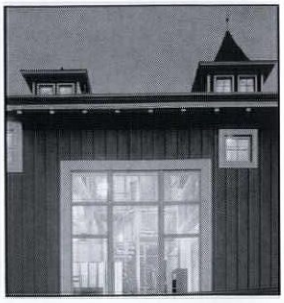

The new, larger sweeping roof planes are the highlight of the project, increasing the pavilion volume and providing 30% more weather coverage with improved acoustics. Round steel tube trusses were used to "lighten" the appearance of the new roof in contrast to the square tube steel structure it replaced. The pavilion now fully engages the lawn seating into the venue. With a clear span of 118 feet, seven concrete pier columns replace the existing 12 truss columns to support the new pavilion and stage roof, thereby eliminating columns within the seating area. In addition, the roof structure itself carries storm drainage directly underground to the Gore Creek, thus eliminating the old gutter and downspout surface drainage. Softer, indirect lighting highlights the new redwood roof deck and exposed structure creating a warm glow over the audience in the evenings.

"By breaking the large roof into sections at different levels, they have developed a way to bring in natural light and achieve a sculptural effect of floating planes. At the same time, the exposed wood decking imbues the space with visual warmth. The framing of views of the landscape and sky is entirely harmonious. Nature becomes the backdrop for performances."

Built Architecture

Office of Metropolitan Design for Netcher Barn

"The architects have retained the qualities of the barn and found ways to inhabit it with new uses and life. Great care was taken in the relocation, reconstruction and conversion of the original barn. The structural integrity has been preserved. The design is straight-forward, robust and unsentimental while reflecting a love of the original barn."

Built Architecture

RNL Design, Shears + Leese Architects, LLC for 15th & Pearl Parking Structure

"This urbane project is an exemplary act of city building. The garage is integrated with retail shops and offices, making it a mixed-use development. The project is contextual yet contemporary with thoughtful, well-scaled canopies, piers, and handsome brick detailing. "

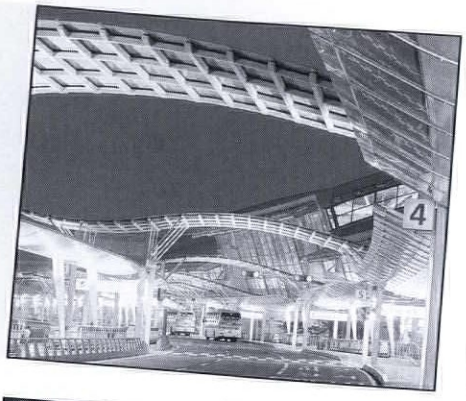

2002 Award Recipients

AIA Colorado Special Awards

Built Architecture

Design Architect: Fentress Bradburn Architects, Ltd.
Architect of Record: Korean Architects Collaborative International for Incheon International Airport Passenger Terminal Complex

"What is refreshing about this project is how the architects have taken the functional diagram of airport circulation and interchanges and managed to express the essence of Korean culture, avoiding the generic blandness of so many airports that function well but lack a sense of place and identity."

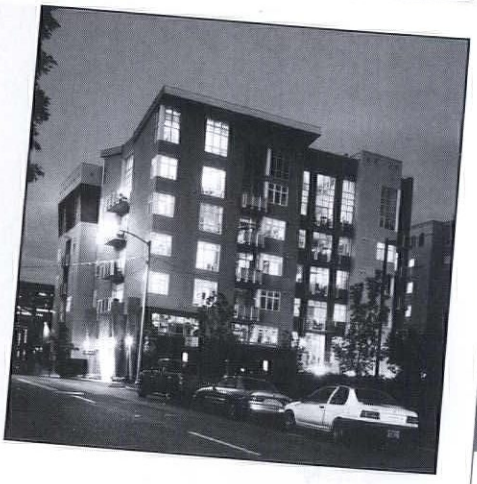

Built Architecture

Humphries Poli Architects, P.C. for Century Lofts

The excitement inherent in the roots of modernism is the building's underlying architectural message. It seems very appropriate that the elements of light, color, and the freedom from structural constraints are combined in a building attempting to realize a less restrictive lifestyle rooted in the richness of the urban fabric. Based on the model of urban courtyard buildings, this L-shaped, 30-unit building is organized around an open-air circulation and commons courtyard, both practical notions in Denver's moderate, dry climate. Individual dwellings benefit from this thin footprint, placing the most public uses nearest the street and views, yet maintaining ventilation and quiet uses towards the court space.

"This is a very skillfully handled L-shaped, 30-unit mid-rise residential building organized around a courtyard. The project vigorously reinforces the neighborhood by adding density, and contemporary architectural form. The contrast of the urban street faces of the building and the filigree of walkways and stairs at the rear is very rich."

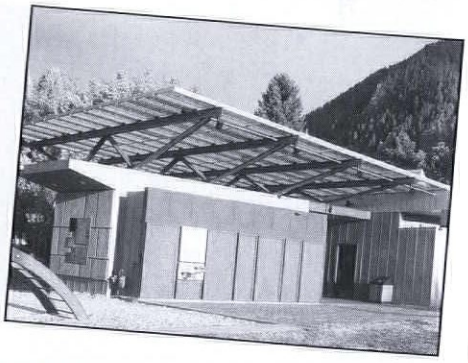

Citation Award (excellence in achievment)

Built Architecture

Willis Pember Architects, Inc., Suzannah Reid, AIA Ajax Design Graphics for Wagner Park Edge

"This is a small pavilion that reads big and has large ambitions. Sitting at the edge of a park, the pavilion is very public in nature, creating outdoor exhibition space. The design incorporates a number of "green" initiatives including photovoltaic panes. The project animates and adds energy to an outdoor plaza, transforming the edge condition into an interactive seam."

Built Architecture

OZ Architecture for The Nature Conservancy Headquarters

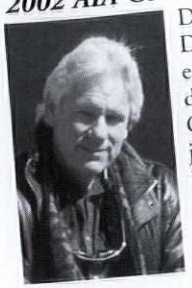

"This is a unique institutional building that has been integrated into a mixed-use block in an historic district. The massing strategy of setting the third floor back from the lower masonry base and treating the upper level as a conceptual pavilion creates a beneficial massing that respects the scale of the surrounding neighborhood."

AIA Colorado 2002 Honor Awards

Recognizing individuals and organizations for their outstanding leadership, innovation and contribution to the architectural community, the Colorado component of The American Institute of Architects (AIA) presented its 2002 Honor Awards to David Barrett, AIA, Aller-Lingle Architects, Mark Johnson and the Boulder Mall.

2002 AIA Colorado Architect of the Year

David Barrett, AIA

David is the principal of Barrett Studio Architects and has practiced architecture focusing on ecological balance with the built environment since 1977. David strives to produce work that is expressive of a spirit of place while applying patterns that drive healthy organisms to the creation of sustainable architecture and community. A visiting lecturer at the University of Colorado as well as throughout the United States and internationally, David carries this awareness to private and public projects such as the award winning Chapel of the Abbey of St. Walburga in Virginia Dale, Colorado, and learning communities in Colorado, Florida, California, and Tajikistan.

On the Cover: Private residence in Salida, Colorado called the Arter Martin Residence. Utilizing straw bale construction, this project illustrates David's passion for sustainable systems in tune with nature and place.

2002 Firm of the Year

Aller-Lingle Architects P.C.

Aller-Lingle Architects P.C. was established in 1986 by principals Michael Aller, AIA and David Lingle, AIA based upon a philosophy of innovative design, technical excellence and outstanding client service, with Brad Massey joining the partnership in 1998. A staff of twelve, the firm works collaboratively to produce solid design solutions and has gained a broad background in a variety of project types, ranging in scale from $100,000 to over $15 million, including governmental facilities, affordable housing, rehabilitation and historic renovation, parks/recreation facilities, research laboratories, higher education, transportation facilities, programming and master planning, interior space planning, and office, medical and multi-tenant commercial projects.

One the Cover:

The Lory Student Center Addition project designed for Colorado State University in Fort Collins is a 14,000 sq. ft. addition and 3,000 sq. ft. remodel to provide office and conference space for a variety of student advocacy groups and expansion of the retail mall area of the student center. The design intent was to establish a new architectural image for the Lory Student Center. The massing and exterior forms of the addition reflect the cultures of the different student groups involved in the project. Interior elements and details in the ceramic tile floors, stair handrails and ceiling forms were influenced by the exterior mosaic tile designs of the original building.

AIA Colorado 2002 Contribution to the Environment by a Non-Architect

Mark W. Johnson, FASLA

Founding Principal, CIVITAS

Mark is recognized as a visionary and powerful influence in affecting change through the process of urban design. His leadership has resulted in the implementation of some of the most complex projects in the country. Since 1989, he has been instrumental in the redevelopment of Denver's Stapleton International Airport. Mark is committed to the improvement of cities and the natural environment as shown in the design and development of Denver's downtown river front park system. Mark's ability to listen, and provide honest response to challenging issues has brought him to the forefront of the design community throughout the nation.

On the Cover: Commons Park

Commons is located on the Platte River in downtown Denver, Colorado. The 30 acre site has long been recognized as the birthplace of Denver and had been designated a city park over 100 years ago. However, as the city grew, the park evolved into a railroad yard and warehouse district when industrialization spread in the Platte Valley. The focus of this project was to bring downtown and the surrounding neighborhoods together at the river. Civitas created a place where people and wildlife can coexist in the heart of the city. The park design provides room for informal field sports, picnics, nature study and general play. Landscape forms express the original riparian corridor through the sand hills of the eastern plains. Commons Park is the centerpiece of Denver's Riverfront Park System. It is the connecting link in a 10-1/2 mile greenway along the river, which is the result of the River Revitalization Plan created by the Platte River Commission.

AIA Colorado 2002 Twenty-Five Year Award

Boulder Mall

The grand opening was held on August 6, 1977 after almost one year of construction and 3 years of planning, design and public meetings during which many political twists and turns more than once came close to scuttling the project.

The original objective of the Downtown Boulder Mall was to strengthen the economic base and improve the environmental quality of the historic commercial core through the creation of a four-block pedestrian area.

The project focused on preserving and reinforcing the historic quality of the downtown, recruiting pedestrian-friendly retail businesses to th area, creating opportunities for pedestrian-oriented activities such as sidewalk cafes, food vending carts, and street entertainers, and organiz ing the downtown property owners and businesses into a coordinated marketing effort.

A 3.2-acre pedestrian zone was created by closing four blocks of the Pearl Street right-of-way. The three intersecting cross streets remain open. A continuous fire lane also serves as a limited service access.

Now after 25 years of proven success, the Downtown Boulder Mall is nationally recognized as a sterling example of innovative downtown revitalization. It has been the focus of articles and visitations from downtown planners and managers from around the nation.

AIA Denver Design Awards

AIA Denver Design Awards

The Denver chapter of The American Institute of Architects (AIA) announced the architecture excellence award recipients of its 2002 Design Awards at the Denver Art Museum on October 4, 2002.

Each year, local chapter members submit projects and compete for Honor, Merit and Citation awards. Architecture Magazine's former editor-in-chief and this year's jury chairperson, Reed Kroloff, along with Marion Weiss, principal of Weiss/Manfredi Architects and Gregg Pasquarelli, principal of Sharpless Holden Pasquarelli, both of New York, New York, judged more than seventy-five submitted projects in categories that included Built, Unbuilt and Civic Projects.

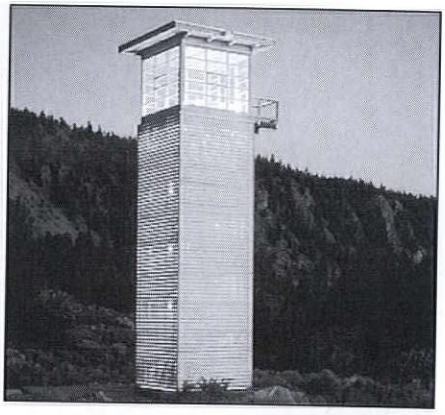

Awarded architects with projects and descriptions are:

The Honor Award (highest achievement)

Built/Architecture

Anderson Mason Dale Architects for River Tower and Studio, Granite, Colorado

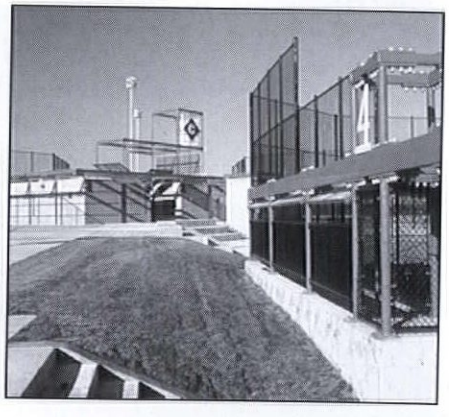

The buildings recall a village composition similar to the early gold mining settlements of the area. The tower and studio are companion elements which celebrate the joy of study and work as an undivided experience. A stairway winds around the open center shaft of the tower leading to a platform under the tower room where final access is provided by a ladder and hatch. Built-in seating and storage allows conversion to nighttime sleeping and the opportunity to sleep with the stars. Coyotes howl when the tower glows as a lantern in the night sky. The studio includes a raised work area at each end of its nave like space, a metaphor to step up to one's work with total focus and devotion.

Built/Interiors

Brendle APV for Aurora Sports Park, Aurora, Colorado

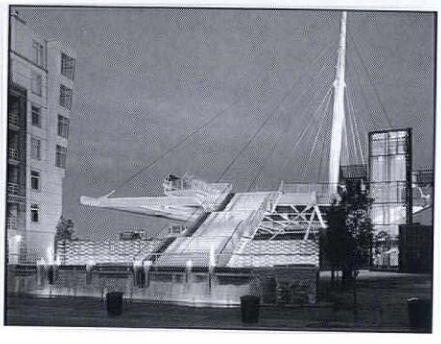

While working on the concept for this project, Brendle APV began playing with the idea that the architecture should be derived directly from children's toys. Since kids would be major users of the park, the architecture could embrace the idea of fun and color. The original design models were constructed of "K'nex", modular connectible building systems, and presented as "toy architecture". The translation from toys to buildings became critical in order to maintain the character of the toy model. A grid of 10' modules was created utilizing tube steel elements. The connections were emphasized by plates, top and bottom, held together by large bolts and oversized polished acorn nuts. This grid framework surrounds simple boxes of polished concrete block.

Merit Award (outstanding achievment)

ArchitectureDenver for Denver Millennium Bridge, Denver, Colorado

The structure is an asymmetrical mast and cable stayed span. It is placed over an existing railroad easement envelope 25 feet above street level and within an existing street right of way. The composition of the mast, deck and the structural cable system create a visual and spatial foil. The structure is of a singular dynamic quality and has become an urban landmark providing focus and identity to this new extension of the 16th Street pedestrian mall.

Built/Architecture

Studio Completiva, Inc. for the Addition to the Scottish Rite Masonic Center, Denver, Colorado

The owner required an addition to a historic landmark structure built in 1923. The addition was designated for office space and specific rooms for freemason activities as well as space for lease. Project challenges included integration of Capitol Overlay Zoning District requirements, approval from Landmark Commission and coordination with an adjacent, large apartment complex being developed simultaneoulsy by a different owner. Additional challenges came from providing horizontal connection/circulation and vertical egress with the existing building that houses a large auditorium and stage with multiple intermediary service levels.

Built/Architecture

Studio Completiva, Inc. for Capitol Heights Apartments, Denver, Colorado

The owner wanted to revitalize an area near the capitol which consisted of the juxtaposition of several neoclassical structures of historic value with run-down retail and rental housing units nearby. A large surface parking lot amid the quadrangle served as the site. A mixed-use, high density development was envisioned to activate the area and bring an enhanced pedestrian interaction to the stature of the existing neoclassical buildings in the area.

A number of special zonning restrictions and overlays had to be addressed due to the preservation requirements of the historic landmark status for several structures in the area. Another challenge was cost. Our design investigations lead us to novel solutions utilizing inexpensive materials by breaking down the structure through massing manipulation and color. Surfaces were carefully modulated to expose structure, create scale and richness.

Built/Interiors

Semple Brown Design, P.C. for Barnhart Loft, Denver, Colorado

The architectural/interior design team's goal was to design a 'chic' industrial space for the client's home in the city.

Living room area was raised to create both a more intimate sitting area and improve the sitting view to downtown. Materials in this space include a leather floor inset with padded carpet, recycled wood counter tops, and custom steel shelving.

Custom designed steel bookcases span across the length of the space. The hopper functioning cabinet doors are designed with hydraulic shocks to assist in easy opening and closing.

This guest area is primarily used as a conference area and converts to a guest bedroom when the Murphy bed is dropped and the woven door is closed.

Axis connecting the office silo to the master bedroom shows the play of materials within the space; woven closet doors and screen walls, backlit to create a warm textural glow, clear maple rolling and hinged doors act as articulated wall panels-concealing laundry, guest bath, and guestroom. All walls within this space stop short of the ceiling to reinforce the overall shape of the silo and to expand the feeling of the space.

Built/Architecture

Semple Brown Design, P.C. for MAX, Boulder, Colorado

Light, layering, and polished materials became the key elements in redefining this Boulder boutique. MAX has an unparalleled reputation for presenting the latest in fashion, yet the existing space was small and indistinctive. The goal was to design a space that projects the store's refinement & sophistication.

Located within an historic pedestrian district of Boulder, this corner site has a high pedestrian and vehicle traffic. An essential element for the success of the design was to create a strong street presence. By adding a new window and removing walls, the space was completely reconfigured to improve the store's visibility and spatial openness. The new entry to the store draws people in from the street. It aligns with a soffit above that recalls the platform of a fashion show runway. This strategy, combined with the overall sleekness, conveys that latest fashions and a sophisticated experience are here.

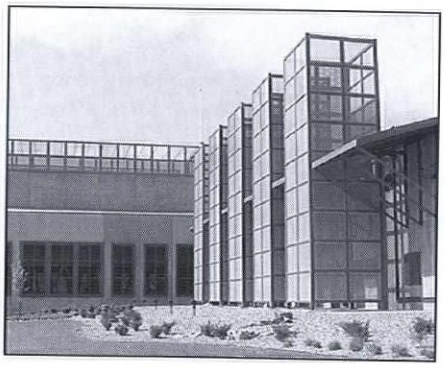

Awards of Special Recognition

Built/Architecture

Gensler for Sabre Data Center, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma

The 225,000 sf Sabre Data Center includes two computer modules totaling 134,000 sf, 13,000 sf of office space, and a 78,000 sf central plant. The raised computer floor area is designed for 100 watts per square foot, while the overall facility is designed to withstand the effects of a Category F5 tornado.

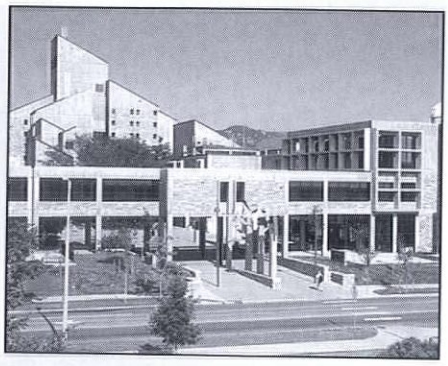

The many steps taken in designing the structural layout of the building to protect the data center from the area's characteristically high winds. The precast concrete shell and steel columns support a 16-inch thick concrete roof while the walls of the computer modules are bermed to the roof-line.

Built/Architecture

Klipp Colussy Jenks DuBois Architects, P.C. for Discovery Learning Center, Boulder, Colorado

The Discovery Learning Center is the second act of an architectural drama that has unfolded at the east side of the Engineering Complex at the University of Colorado at Boulder. The first step was the 1998 Integrated Teaching and Learning Laboratory (ITLL), a two story addition the bridged back to the Engineering Center and explored, with its exterior detailing, the further extension of the unique vocabulary of the main facility. The Discovery Learning Center (DLC) takes this a step further and completes several gestures initiated in the earlier building.

AIA Colorado North Design Awards

AIA Colorado North Design Awards

The Colorado North chapter of The American Institute of Architects (AIA) recognized its 2002 recipients for design excellence at the Stanley Hotel in Estes Park. The AIA Colorado North chapter covers nine counties in Northeastern Colorado and includes Boulder, Greeley, Fort Collins, Loveland and Longmont.

Fifty submitted projects from AIA Colorado North chapter members were judged in categories in Unbuilt Projects, Small Projects (construction costs less than $300,000), Residential Architecture, Historic Renovation, and Commercial/Institutional. Renowned architect, Robert F. Gatje, FAIA, participated as this year's jury chairperson. Other jury participants were Tician Papachristou, FAIA, of Massachusetts and Bruce S Fowle, FAIA, New York.

Small Projects

Roger M. Thorp, AIA Thorp Associates, P.C.
Town of Estes Park Gateway

The design was developed to mimic a natural stone outcrop that would give the appearance of being thrust up from the ground, leaving a single monolith to be simply etched with the name of the community. Sandstone from local quarries was the chosen material to complement the natural coloration of the Granite/sandstone Mountains in the area.

"Its simplicity of conception, the dedication of its execution – all conspired to reinforce the honorable result. We admired the sensitive incised lettering and logo and its careful placement against the awesome backdrop of the mountainous park. More sculpture than architecture, it still looked great."

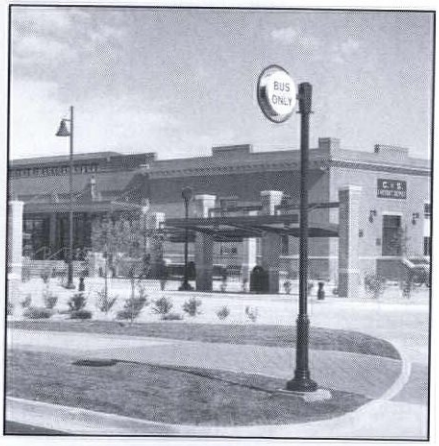

Merit Award (highest achievment)

Historic Renovation

Aller-Lingle Architects, P.C.
C&S Freight Depot Downtown Transit Center, Ft Collins

The downtown Transit Centre is a historic rehabilitation and adaptive reuse of the 1906 C & S Railroad Freight Depot into a new downtown multi-model transit center for the City of Fort Collins. Users include the local Transport bus service and other regional carriers, taxi and airport shuttle services and office space for the city of Fort Collins' SMARTtrips program. The restored Transit Center will anchor one end of the proposed Mason Street Corridor, a multi-model transportation corridor running 5.5 miles through the urban core of Fort Collins.

"The meticulous restoration of the exterior of this old Freight is praised and the echo of its suspended canopy in the new bus shelters is recognized. The resultant shell is an evocative monument. Altogether a fine addition to downtown Ft Collins and no doubt admired by the travelers that will put it to good use."

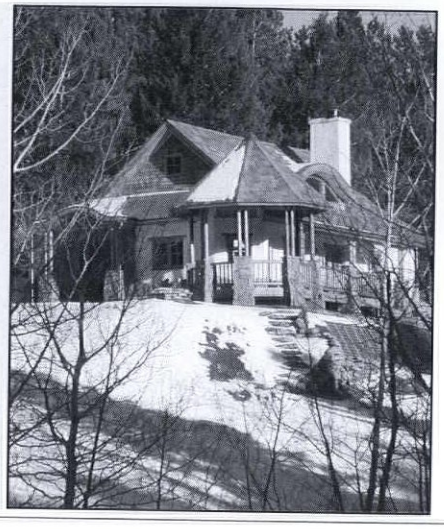

Residential Architecture

Rodwin Architecture Hell's Canyon Cottage, Larimer County

This 1200 s.f. cottage sits on a small knoll surrounded 309 pristine acres just outside of Estes Park in Larder County. The valley is the site of a turn-of-the century cattle summer pasture. The cottage was created as a mountain retreat for two families, and sleeps up to 14 people. This earthy gem has many unique architectural aspects: a cozy bounce (a Mexican/southwestern feature referring to a cave-like nook) filled with pillows; a treehouse-like sleeping and play loft overlooking the great room; an octagonal gazebo with spectacular 270 degree views of the private valley; a poetic eyebrow window and entry gable; a beautiful and unique bathroom with a Cedar-lined two-person shower and a polished river-rock floor, with a layout that can accommodate three separate parties simultaneously; a traditional wood-burning Rumsford fireplace, surrounded by pink local sandstone; wood dwelled heavy-timber roof framing; copper gutters with chain link downspouts; artistic, rustic woodwork and custom cabinetry throughout; a road gate welded by a neighbor from antique farm machinery; and a romantic, wood-fired, outdoor Cedar hot tub.

"This is a fine house, enhanced by the serious dedication to "green" principles. Its stuccoed strawbale walls are appropriately detailed."

Residential Architecture

Harvey M. Hine Architects, P.C.
Jessor / Menken Residence, Boulder

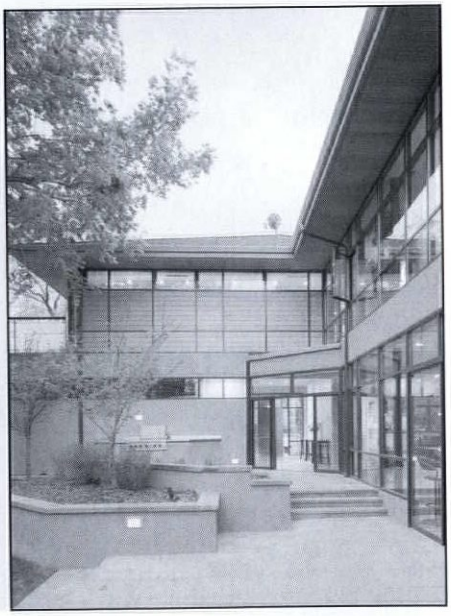

The design is a composition of four floor levels, each with walk out access to an adjacent terrace. The curved walls were created to comply with solar access restrictions and to take full advantage of the breathtaking views. The thick southern wall acts as a boundary for the free-flowing interior space. The strong southern light is filtered through numerous small punctured windows in this wall creating a mosaic of light, subtly changing throughout the day and year.

A straight run stair is located directly adjacent to the southern bounding wall, creating a pause between the exterior and the interior. This primary stairway connects all of the public spaces in the house, while secondary stairs connect and separate the private spaces from the public. A roof top terrace and garden is accessed by an exterior stairway from the west terrace, and offers a 360 degree panoramic view of the Front Range and the City of Boulder.

"We treasure this one uncompromising submission in a truly contemporary idiom. Its use of crisp, contrasting materials and careful fenestration enhance a plan that is most responsive to the dramatic site. The curvilinear lines of its principal spaces are a fine foil to the elegant geometry of the rest of the composition."

Residential Architecture

OZ Architecture, Hannah Evans Residence

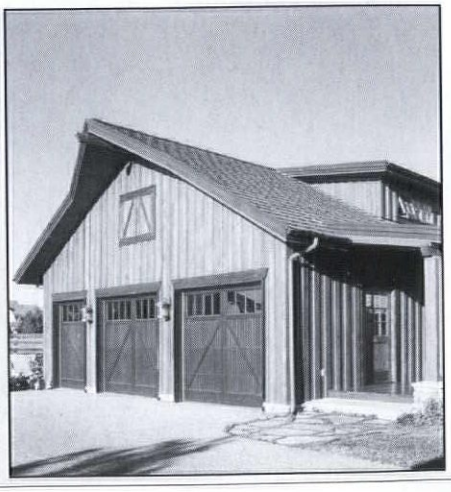

This residence, located in an established neighborhood in east Denver, was designed for a single professional woman and completed in 2002. The architectural brief for the project offered interesting opportunities and challenges.

The owner wanted a modern design that fit architecturally into its 1950s ranch house style neighborhood. She had been living on the site in a split level ranch that had become obsolete, as is the case with many of the original houses in the neighborhood, which are located on large lots and are being rapidly replaced with larger homes. Generally, these new larger homes are designed to imitate historical styles such as English Tudor, French Country, Spanish Colonial, etc. Our client agreed with us that her new house should be reflective of the present era rather than a previous one and the house should take its design cues from the original and more straightforward ranch style homes. We thought of Wright's Prairie House and their floating roofs as a starting point for our design.

"The frank acknowledgment of Wright's influence makes it possible to admire this house and what it has succeeded in doing as a modern addition to a conservative neighborhood. The ground floor plan is exceptionally well worked out in giving privacy to residents on a busy street. References to Japan are obvious and welcome. "

Residential Architecture

Mark S. Queripel, AIA, Terra Verde Architects, LLC
Western Ranch, Boulder County

Deep roof overhangs and wrap-around porches protect the home from the western sun and southern exposure while providing plenty of indoor-outdoor connectivity. The low roof profile provided many opportunities to customize the upper floor bedrooms so that each child's room had unique features such as window seats, built-ins or skylights. Two staircases, formal and informal, connect the two levels. The approach to the front entrance sweeps gracefully in a semi-circle and a heavily landscaped burn protects the home from the street and adjoining neighbors. The landscape was carefully planned to create privacy for the homeowners as well as protect view corridors for nearby properties.

"This is a very big, solid house that uses a familiar vernacular with conviction and consistency. It is beautiful and certainly a comfortable home for its lucky owners."

Honor Award - Commercial/Institutional

Downing, Thorpe & James, Inc.
Caretaker's Cottage at Saguaro Forest - Arizona

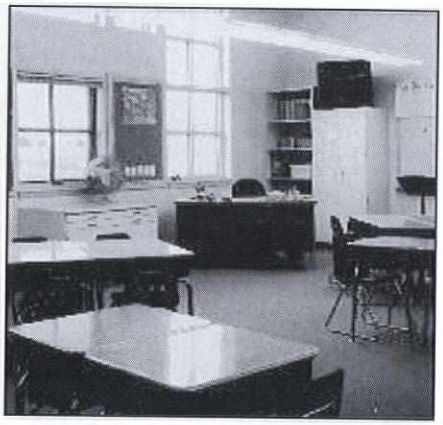

The design concept for this community entry began by responding to the land and the traditions of the desert region. As residents and visitors move from the desert flat lands into the foothills of the Saguaro Forest they feel as if they have happened upon an old homestead. A rustic caretaker's cottage acts as the entry to this resort community and provides a personalized experience for all who pass through its gates.

While creating a distinctive sense of entry, the experience is somewhat understated. The idea of place, history, and a storyline is reflected through many design elements. Stone pavers along the road transition to building materials, distressed wood enhances the building's rustic appearance, and rusted iron gates enforce the sense of history.

"We were completely captivated by this theatrical tour-de-force, despite the architect's claim to "understatement". Beautiful adobe-like detailing, Gaudiesque stone and metalwork, combined with a fine wood vocabulary result in a storybook structure. A great job."

Merit Award - Commercial/Institutional

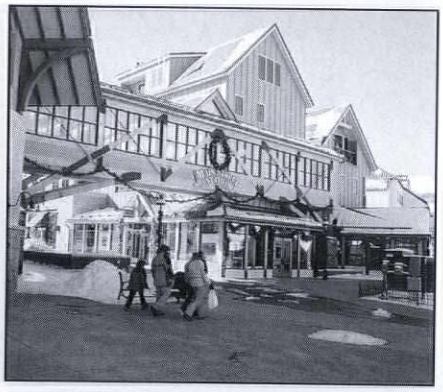

RB + Architects, Inc.
Zach (Prototype 2000) Elementary School

The plan of the Prototype Elementary 2000 incorporates a diagonal corridor, which divides the school into "passive areas" and "active areas". The classrooms face the quiet or passive part of the site. The Gymnasium and Flax Room/Cafeteria face the playground and ball fields or active part of the site. Classrooms are grouped in threes and stacked, meeting the programmatic requirement of grouping classrooms by age or (by working vertically), three schools within a school of grades 1 through 6. This concept plan allowed maximum daylight in most all classrooms as well as teacher work spaces, and placed all classrooms in close proximity to the Media Center, Gym and Cafeteria. Zach was recently awarded one of the 6 national design award citations given by AASA/AIA/CEFPI.

"This handsome school must be a joy to its students and we admire its thoughtful plan and decorative, if derivative facades."

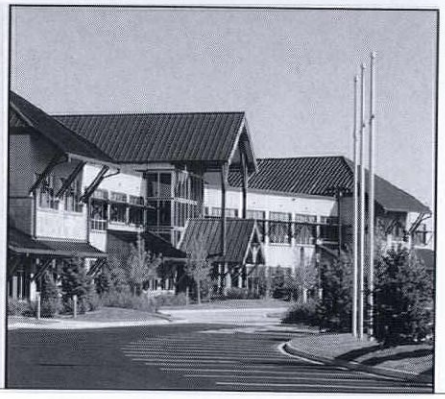

K. David Carson and Andy White, OZ Architecture, Cottle Graybeal and Yaw
Main Street Station, Breckenridge

The complete complex ties together a diverse set of requirements into a solution that is a joy to walk through and discover its richness. The diverse uses are complimentary. The plazas and site connections satisfy the needs of the ski resort and town circulation. The very large building masses are broken down into smaller elements that fit comfortably into the scale of the downtown. The open spaces and retail fronts enliven the pedestrian experience. The architectural detailing acknowledges the rich environment of the town in which this project exists.

"This is primarily an example of excellent town planning. The relationship of underground parking to street level commerce and overhead residential sounds just about right. In this case, after careful examination we think the project succeeds on the basis of its search for authentic local color and detailing and the strength of its plan."

Downing, Thorpe & James, Inc.
Xilinx Colorado Corporate Campus, Longmont

In the high technology world, creative advantages are what make the difference between success and failure. The Client, a leading designer of programmable logic chips for the computer industry, recognized the positive impact that new facilities could have on their products and company employees. The Client's charge to the architecture design team was to create an innovative corporate research and development office campus in Colorado. The first completed phase is comprised of a 127,000 square-foot office building and a 6,500 square-foot conference center. Future phases include an additional 635,000 square feet of office, conference, dining, and recreation uses spread among eight buildings.

"The single-client office development looks deceptively simple in plan and incredibly complex in elevation. The exercise has been cleverly carried out and there is a final sense of cohesion and place that probably makes it one of the best of its type."

AIA Colorado South Design Awards

Merit Award

Lester L. Williams Fire Department Complex - Architect – HB & A
Client – Colorado Springs Fire Department
Contractor – GE Johnson Construction Company

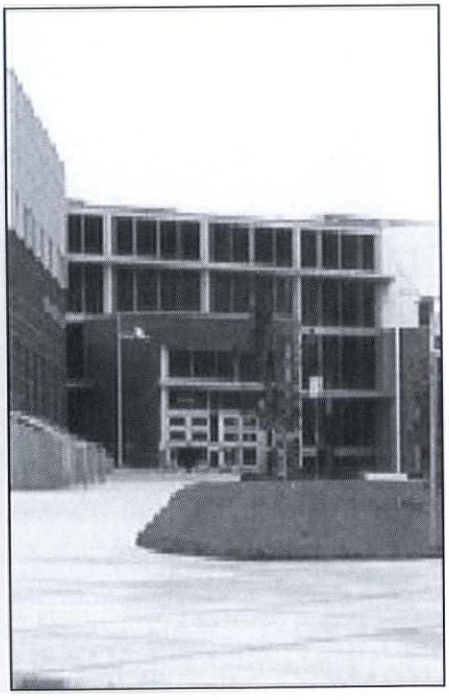

The new Fire Department Complex stands as a proud expression or responsible civic architecture for the City of Colorado Springs. As one of the first Public Safety SCIP projects, the Complex underwent extensive community involvement throughout the planning and design phases. The myriad functions fostered under the umbrella of the Colorado Springs Fire Department all exist to provide the highest quality of service to the citizens of Colorado Springs.

Constructed of durable materials, the successful design meets functional requirements, welcomes the community into the public portions of the building, and provides for future expansion of the departments. The museum portion of the building honors the Department's past in a culturally significant way – making the priceless collection of artifacts and apparatus accessible to the community.

In the short period of occupancy since completion, the building has already achieved significant reputation as a public asset within the City.

Ralston Valley High School - Architect – LKA Partners, Inc.
Client – Jefferson County School District R-1
Contractor – Roche Construction

Located on 54 acres of rolling terrain, the new state-of-the-art high school represents the quality and foresight the Jefferson County School District promotes in its educational philosophy. The large scale and mass of the two story high school was carefully integrated into the site so that it does not dominate views from the major roadways that access the area. Placed within an existing development, surrounded by residential one acre sites, this school facility is an important focal point as a regional hub for education, social and recreational purposes.

The building was carefully oriented for impressive views of the Rocky Mountains while capturing pleasant views of the foothills rolling terrain. An abundant use of windows throughout the building utilizes large expanses of glass for priority public spaces and composition of punched windows for classrooms and offices to integrate users with the natural setting and views, which also includes the business towers of Downtown Denver.

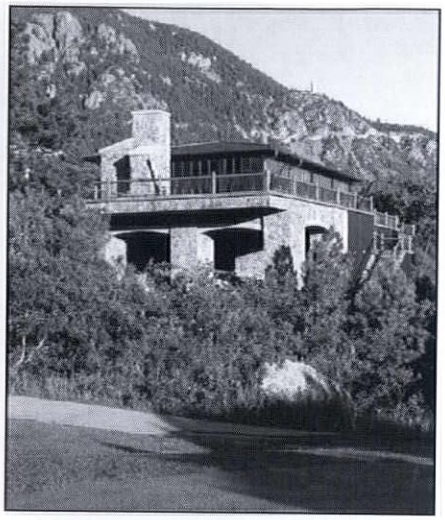

The 1,250-student high school, expandable to 1,500 students with a future classroom addition, was designed to accommodate students in smaller, personal settings. This twenty-fourth high school for Jefferson County is a wonderful combination of community and education facilities, exemplifying clarity of circulation, socialization opportunities, and orientation to unique environment amenities, while demonstrating the importance of a twenty-first century education complex.

Broadmoor South Golf Club - Architect – DLR Group / The TAG Studio
Client – The Broadmoor Hotel
Contractor – Nunn Construction

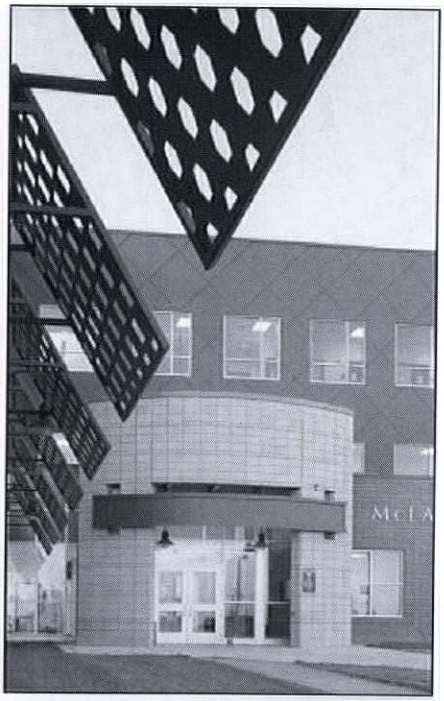

A renovation and addition to the existing clubhouse at the course set at the base of Cheyenne Mountain, the new design goals were to integrate the interior and exterior by enhancing the guest experience of the world class resort.

The addition of a 6,000 SF deck, allows the guests to experience the peaceful Colorado evenings while enjoying spectacular views not only of the Front Range, but overlooking the lights of Colorado Springs. An outdoor fire pit is located outside the dining room along the northern desk and is a natural gathering spot for guests of all ages.

The Dining Room Addition has created a transparent connection to the exterior, and has brought the 'outside in'. It is a pleasure to enjoy a five-course meal while overlooking a serene stream and watching the wildlife frolic on the golf course.

This successful addition to the Clubhouse truly augments the services provided by the five-star resort.

Life Long Learning Center (including McLain Community High School and Warren Tech) - Architect – LKA Partners, Inc.
Client – Jefferson County School District R-1
Contractor – PCL Constructors

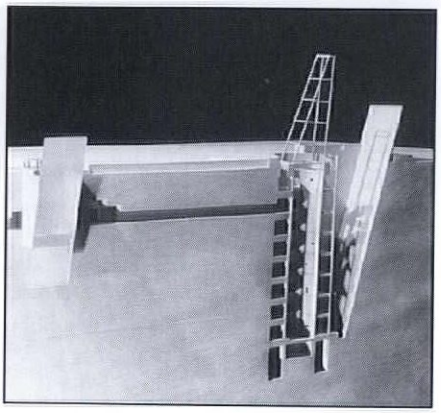

In 1998, after years of scattered buildings, with no forethought to the future, the bringing together of individual facilities into a campus was desired and the Life Long Learning Center was born. The facilities and programs for the Center involve not only Jefferson County School District, but also, partnerships with Red Rocks Community College, The City of Lakewood, the Jefferson Foundation and private sector businesses. This unique 210-acre campus has successfully established a strong campus framework, which is useable, memorable, and flexible for the future.

Located across the pedestrian Alley from Warren Tech, McLain Community High School is a three level high school, which steps up the sloping site. The new community high school houses three distinct programs. The Warren Tech Center comprises five buildings, which were at best – dated and uninspiring. Despite obvious visual and functional shortcomings, the programs offered were successful, so improvements were overdue that would finally reflect what was happening within. The new look for Warren Tech has quite simply transformed the facility, redefined its direction, and made the students proud to say they attend Warren Tech.

The Life Long Learning Center has been defined and is truly unified – embracing a passion for learning sought by students from pre-school to adulthood.

Remote UN Security Council Chambers - Architect – Mark Harris
Un-built Architecture

Located in the remote location of a desert military installation, the rehabilitation of the Titan II missile silo is to maintain its role of being a deterrent to the possible catastrophe that a nuclear confrontation would bring if undertaken at any scale. However, in times like these it is diplomacy that seems to be the greatest weapon in our arsenal. The isolated location of the new United Nations Security Council Chambers provides the necessary neutrality for diplomatic actions to succeed.

Through it's aggressive yet poetically made point that architecture can convey meaning and modify behavior. This creative and innovative adaptive re-use project embraces what was once destructive into a beacon of hope in a dark sea of fear, or as a voice of reason in a time of great madness.

2002 Award Recipients

AIA Colorado West Design Awards

The Colorado West chapter of The American Institute of Architects (AIA) announced the recipients of its 2002 Design Awards at the Hotel Colorado in Glenwood Springs. AIA Colorado West is the largest geographical area, covering twenty-two counties in Western Colorado and in includes the communities of Aspen, Breckenridge, Vail Grand Junction Durango and Steamboat Springs. Each year, local chapter members submit projects and compete for Honor, Merit and Citation awards. More than forty submitted projects were judged in categories that included Commercial/Institutional, Residential Economy of Means, Residential over $1 million Construction, Details Interior and Exterior and Open. Renowned architect, Antoine Predock, FAIA, participated as this year's guest juror and the 2001 AIA National President, John Anderson, FAIA, was the evening's guest speaker and awards presenter.

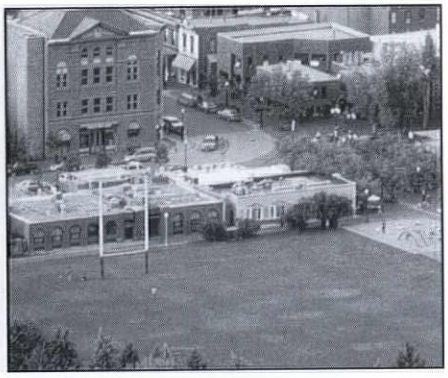

Awarded architects with projects and jury comments are:

Honor Award (highest achievement)

Commercial/Institutional - Willis Pember Architects, Inc., Suzannah Reid, AIA for Wagner Park Edge Aspen, Colorado

Wagner Park Edge is a built competition entry sited along the contiguous edge of a pedestrian mall and an urban park in downtown Aspen. Construction includes a clock tower, exhibition pavilion and ceremonial plaza. The project seeks to address several urban design goals while celebrating the notion of 'green theatre' in which construction and exhibition are interchangeable. The exhibition pavilion accommodates a graphic timeline of local history, touch screen monitors, a photovoltaic glass roof and public restrooms. The siting and articulation of these elements seek to increase the transparency between the mall and park, inscribe a 'gateway' function across the edge and mediate views of Aspen Mountain through varied glass effects.

"The mall provides an active pedestrian experience while balancing an effective level of transparency and porosity along the parks edge."

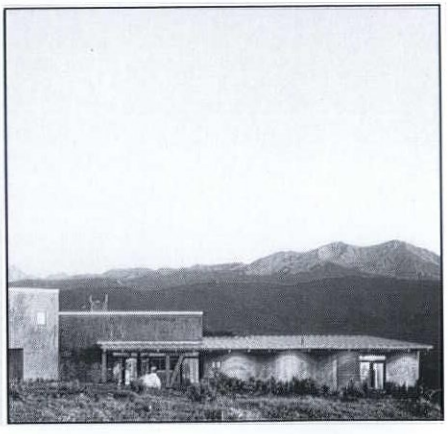

Residential Economy of Means -Willis Pember Architects, Inc. for Blue Moon Ranch, Missouri Heights, Colorado

Blue Moon Ranch Located on a remote mountain desert plateau, this single family residence overlooks the Roaring Fork Valley and embraces panoramic views of the Rocky Mountains. The home is situated on four discrete site platforms and descends harmonically with the contours, (elevations +0'-0",-2'-0", -3'-6" and -4'-6")..

The massing, restricted to four elemental 'boxes' with overhangs, responds to the motion inherent in the site - a two sided overlook. The harmonic progression of site platforms is reiterated in a similar progression of diminishing roof pitches, (3/12, 2/12, 1/12 and .5/12), as the 'boxes' descend into the meadow.

These architectural relationships are analogous to certain acoustic phenomenon, i.e. the Doppler Effect, and resonated with the project's location, conception and execution.

"Skillfully sited. The gradually descending plan fragments oriented to the panoramic views is skillfully executed and is a quiet, elegant solution to its remote site."

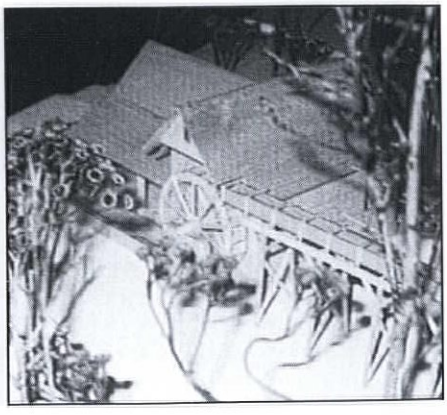

Merit Award (outstanding achievement)

Unbuilt – Open Category - Anderson Architecture P.C. for The Hydro Mill – Two Mile Ranch, Woody Creek, Colorado

The Hydro-Mill is the keystone of projects for the vision of green development at Two Mile Ranch. Derived from the imagery of a historic grist mill, the Hydro-Mill is a resurrection of water power where creek flows are harnessed to generate clean power; using the grid as a battery in cooperation with the local utility company. Woody Creek, which bisects the two mile stretch of property, has a seasonal flow rate that ranges from 5-800 CFS (cubic feet per second), with the capacity to produce between 45-280Kw/h of power. Educational viewing platforms overlook the two cross flow turbines, central data and communications and a surface water treatment system. As with all the outbuildings at Two Mile Ranch, green building materials and techniques are employed to reduce impacts to the environment and for the benefit of the user.

"Green development. This is a very thoughtful, responsible project contributing clean sustainable electricity to the development."

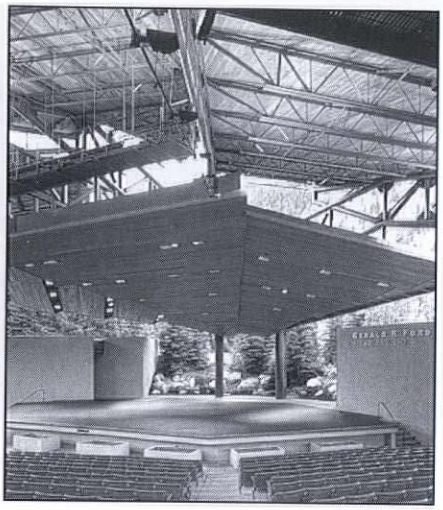

2002 Award Recipients

AIA Colorado West Design Awards

Citation Award (Excellence in achievement)

Commercial/Institutional - James A. Morter, FAIA, James K. Buckner, AIA, Morter Architects for Gerald R. Ford Amphitheater /Vilar Pavilion Vail, Colorado

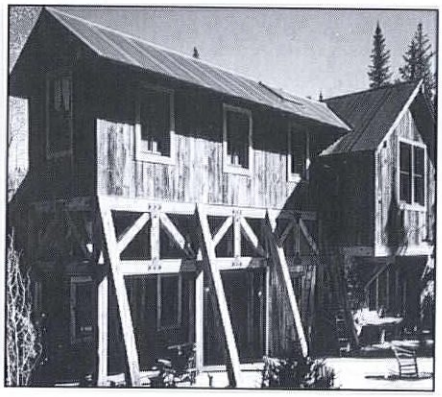

Morter Architects, (who was also the architect for the original structure) was charged with creating a new, larger roof system to better protect the audience and the performers while also increasing the number of protected seats, without sacrificing the unique mountain ambience and open-air feeling of the original design. Equally important was the need to further advance the amphitheater to be a state-of-the-art venue.

The new, larger sweeping roof planes are the highlight of the project, increasing the pavilion volume and providing 30% more weather coverage with improved acoustics. Round steel tube trusses were used to "lighten" the appearance of the new roof in contrast to the square tube steel structure it replaced. The pavilion now fully engages the lawn seating into the venue. With a clear span of 118 feet, seven concrete pier columns replace the existing 12 truss columns to support the new pavilion and stage roof, thereby eliminating columns within the seating area. In addition, the roof structure itself carries storm drainage directly underground to the Gore Creek, thus eliminating the old gutter and downspout surface drainage. Softer, indirect lighting highlights the new redwood roof deck and exposed structure creating a warm glow over the audience in the evenings.

"Building design. The amphitheater projects a glowing celebratory quality. The new fragmented roof planes reinforce the facilities informal site and traditions. The heavier exterior reading of amphitheater's fanning roof planes does not fully translate to the light, buoyant interior. "

Residential (over $1 million)

Bercovitz Design, Architects, Ronald J. Bercovitz, AIA for Lot 921 Telluride, Colorado

The design of this house, built high in the Rocky Mountains, draws from traditional mining structures built in the region. The shape of the building, the materials, and the use of timbers in a mine structure arrangement is reminiscent of a mining tipple. On the interior, rusted steel and timbers are used for the stairs reminiscent of a mining shaft. Corrugated steel is used between the trusses in the living room. Also note the traditional steel connectors on the exterior. These details combined created a mining style home that fits perfectly into the local history of the region. It is a second home for the owners wishing to live in a fun, creative home when visiting this region.

"Building design. Innovative residence referencing its vernacular context. Drawing on the mining vernacular of the region the residence's materiality is true to its past and is thoroughly carried throughout the house. The interior stair ascending to the skylight is a poetic gesture to sky; we would like to have seen more development akin to this sensitive piece. "

Residential (over $1 million)

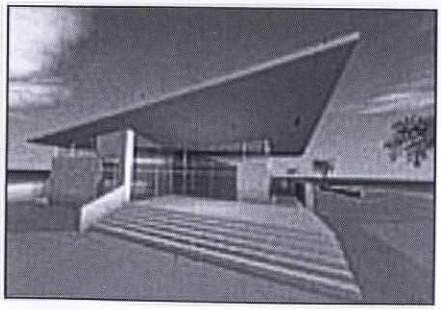

Studio B Architects, Scott Lindenau, AIA, Principal, Derek Skalko, Noah Czech, Elish Warlop – Project Team for Del Balso Residence (Conundrum House) Aspen, Colorado

"The residence is carefully sited in relationship to what seems to be a challenging site. The carefully orchestrated plan orients the living spaces to capture surrounding views."

Unbuilt- Open Category

Studio B Architects, Scott Lindenau, AIA Principal, Derek Skalko, Keith Howie, Ben Dien – Project Team for House on Molokai, Island of Molokai, Hawaii

"This is an elegant residence that thoughtfully responds to its environment. The clear delineation between roof, clerestory and wall is sensitively executed."

FIRM DESCRIPTION

Bercovitz Design Architects specializes in providing top-quality architectural services for clients building high quality single-family custom homes in this ski resort community of Telluride, Colorado. The work of the firm is extremely design oriented, providing ideas and support of numerous ideas throughout the entire design and building process. In addition to striving to produce unique, delightful designs, the company continuously strives to maintain a high level of clie nt satisfaction, with the goal of providing clients with he type of home that they had dreamed of prior to starting into the building process. A vast majority of the projects are in the Telluride area, but routinely projects are being designed in other parts of the country.

We actively seek opportunities to integrate green building techniques in our projects routinely integrating passive solar, well thought out site placements, and materials that are less environmentally demanding, whenever possible.

Bercovitz Design was formed in 1989, and had been a well-established and successful architecture firm for over 14 years in Telluride, Colorado. More than 200 of our projects have been built, and we have attained a local reputation for doing top quality projects.

Bercovitz Design has won several awards including the 1999 Colorado Cobra AIA Honor award and the 2002 Western Colorado AIA Citation Award and our homes have been profiled in national architectural magazines such as Timber Frame Homes and Colorado Homes and Lifestyles, Sunset and Gourmet.
